SASKATCHEWAN FOOD PROCESSORS DIRECTORY

SASKATCHEWAN FOOD PROCESSORS DIRECTORY 1991

FOREWORD

The Saskatchewan Food Processors Directory 1991 is a listing of Saskatchewan food processors and their products. This second directory is an update of the 1990 Saskatchewan Food Processors Directory and the Saskatchewan Food Industry Network/Database program. The directory is designed to assist the agri-food industry in product promotion and development.

The information in this directory was compiled by Saskatchewan Agriculture and Food through a mail-out questionnaire and a telephone follow-up of food processors. We trust this information will be useful to the food industry, agri-business, government and producers. We welcome suggestions for changes and improvements. If you have any comments or inquiries or if your firm would like to be included in the Saskatchewan Food Industry Network/Database please contact:

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The Saskatchewan Food Processors Directory 1991 identifies the food products processed in Saskatchewan by the industrial groupings listed in the Statistics Canada 1980 Standard Industrial Classification (SIC).

The SIC categories represented in the 1991 directory include: beverages, bread and bakery products, brewers malt, dairy products, dry pasta, fish, flour and cereals, food supplements, fruit and vegetables, meat and meat products, poultry, snack foods, sugar and chocolate confectionary, tea and coffee mixes, and vegetable oil.

Processors that ship to other provinces or to other countries are identified as exporters (E).

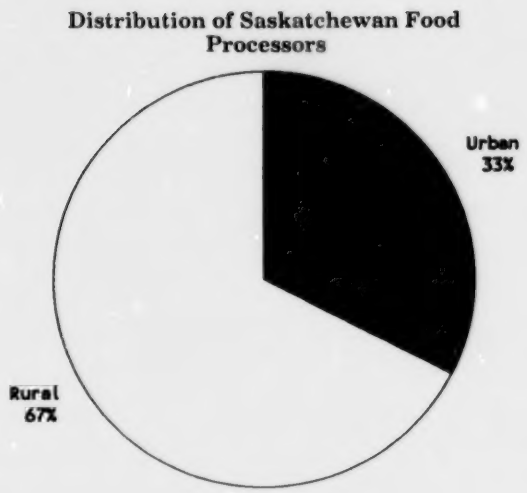
1991 Saskatchewan Food Processors Directory Highlights

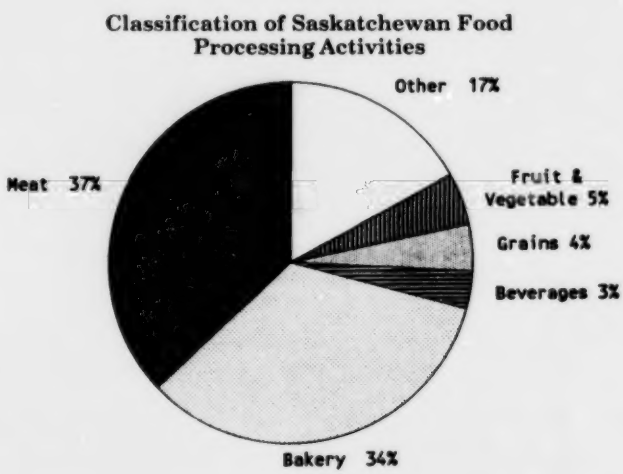
Distribution of Saskatchewan Food Processors

The 1991 Saskatchewan Food Processors Directory lists 542 processors. The processors are located in 180 Saskatchewan communities and are concentrated in the more highly populated urban areas of the southern half of the province. Almost one third of the processors, 177 firms, are located in the four major urban centres of the province, Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and Prince Albert. The remaining 365 are scattered throughout Saskatchewan. The largest number of food processors are located in Saskatoon with 91, 17% of the total. La Ronge has the highest concentration in northern Saskatchewan with 11 firms, 2% of the 542 Saskatchewan food processors.

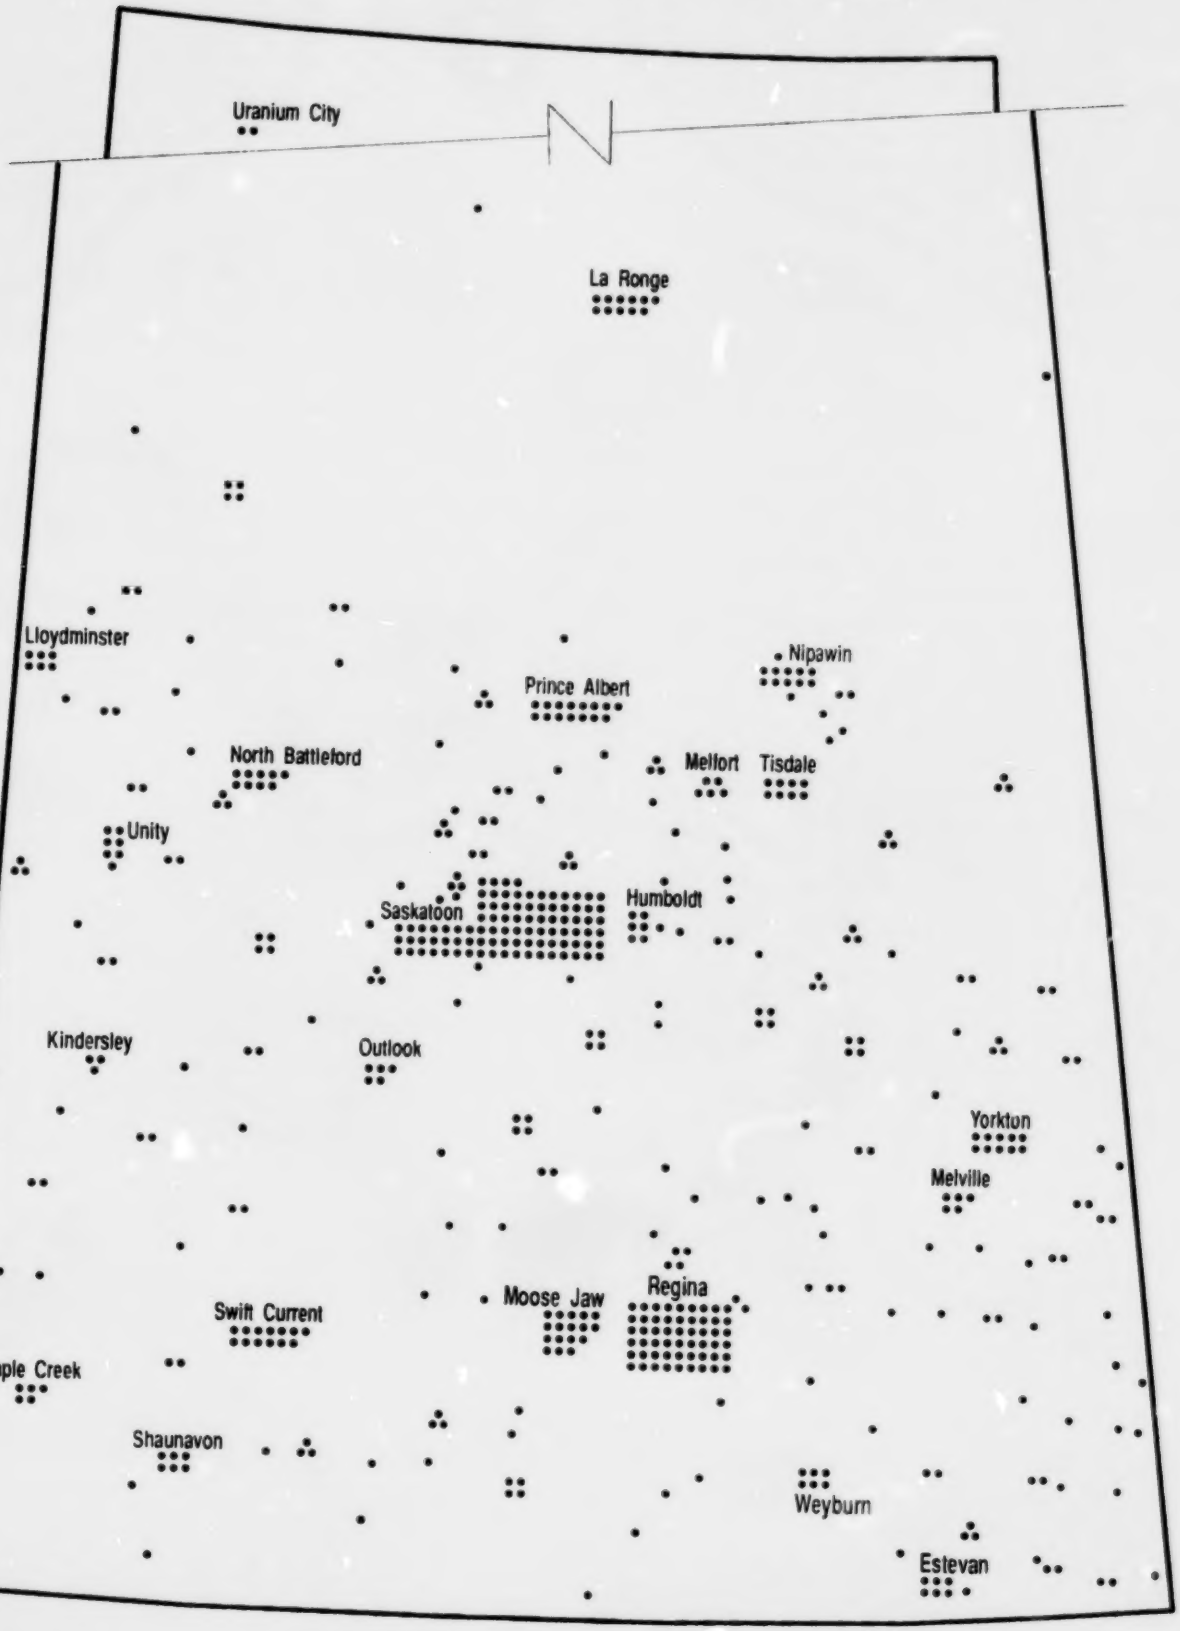


Classification of Processing Activity

The 1991 Saskatchewan Food Industry survey identified twenty Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) categories of food processed in Saskatchewan. The two largest product categories in the Saskatchewan food processing sector are meat processing and bakery production. The 200 meat processors listed in the directory make up 37% of the 542 food processors listed, while the 183 bread and other bakery products producers account for 34%. The fruit and vegetable products category comprises 26 processors or 5% of the listings. Grains processing, which includes cereal grain flour and prepared flour mixes and cereals, accounts for 23 production activities or 4%. The fifth largest processing industry is beverages. A total of 18 firms, 3%, process non-alcoholic and brewery beverage products. The five activities - meat, bakery, grains, fruit and vegetables, and beverages, account for 83% of the industry. The remaining 17% of the processing activities listed in the Saskatchewan Food Industry Processors Directory represent thirteen different SIC classifications.



Distribution of Saskatchewan Food Processors

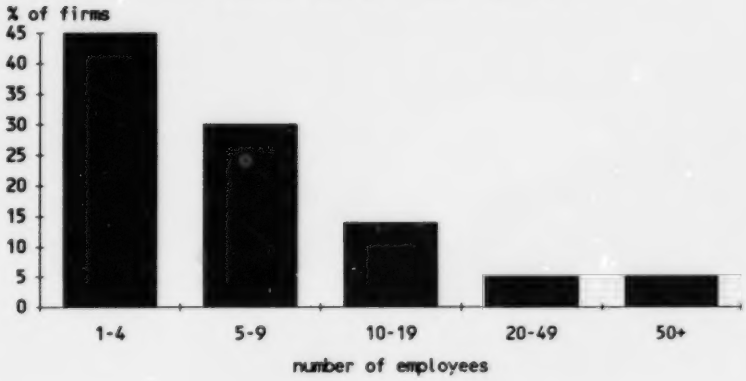


The 1991 Saskatchewan Food Processors Directory survey asked Saskatchewan food processors to report, within specified ranges, the number of their employees, assets, and sales and cost of production for their latest fiscal year.

Employment

Saskatchewan's food processing industry is primarily made up of independently owned small businesses. Forty-five percent of the companies, which provided employment information, reported employing less than five people. Most of these are family operated establishments. Thirty percent of the firms reported from five to nine employees. The majority of processors employing over 50 people are located in Regina or Saskatoon. The smaller food processing establishments are located throughout Saskatchewan.

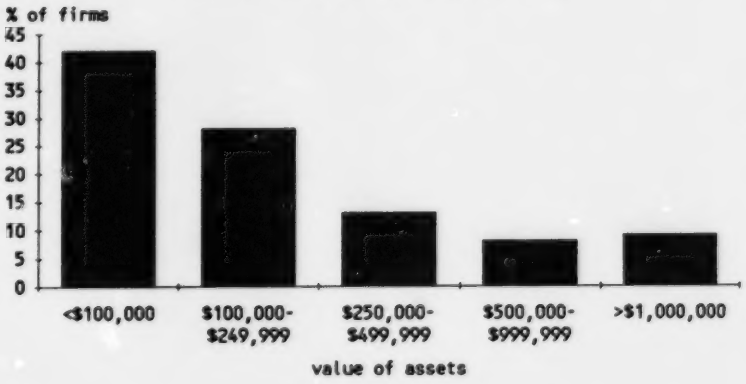
Saskatchewan Food Industry Employment



Assets

Forty-two percent of the Saskatchewan food processors, which provided estimates of the value of owned and leased assets, reported assets of less than $100,000. The majority of these businesses are family owned and include most of the new food processing establishments. Assets of $100,000 to $250,000 were reported by 28 percent of the reporting processors. Nine percent of the processors reported assets over $1 million.

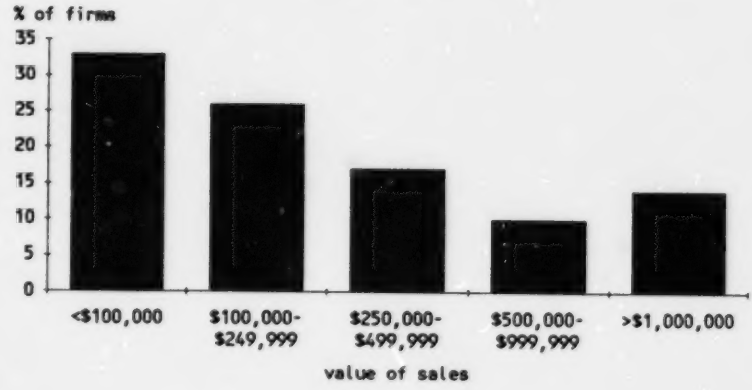
Saskatchewan Food Industry Assets



Sales

Small processing firms make up the majority of the Saskatchewan food processing industry. One third of the processors, which provided sales information, reported sales of less than $100,000 in their last fiscal year and twenty-six percent reported sales of $100,000 to $250,000. Many of the companies located in towns throughout rural Saskatchewan serve only local markets. Other small, developing firms, process specialty products and cater to specialty markets throughout Canada and abroad. Larger and more established food processing companies realized higher sales. Fourteen percent of processors reported sales exceeding $1 million.

Saskatchewan Food Industry Sales



Cost of Production

One-half of the food processors, that provided estimates, reported total production, administration and marketing expenses of less than $100,000 in their last fiscal year. This group includes many seasonal and labour intensive small businesses. Nearly one quarter of Saskatchewan processors reported expenses of $100,000 to $250,000 while 11 percent reported production costs exceeding $1 million.
